A message from President Matthew B. Pagels

To all school aged children and parents, great job surviving such a chaotic school year. I'm certain keeping everyone on track with zoom meetings, homework submissions and check ins has been overwhelming at times. Hopefully things will return to normal next school year.

Normalcy is what we are all aiming for and with everyone continuing to get vaccinated we get closer and closer each day. So far, the Seneca Nation has given 3,300 vaccinations and our daily Covid numbers remain low. As of Friday, June 4th we have one Covid case in Allegany and none in Cattaraugus. This is great!! Let's keep vigilant by practicing Covid protocols and encourage the vaccination so we can get back to normal.

Nya:wëh sgë:nö gagwe:göh,

June (O:yaikeneh) is here and time for celebration as high school students prepare for graduation. It's hard to believe what these soon to be graduates have accomplished over the last year and a half during a pandemic. Everything drastically changed overnight as schools closed and instruction went to remote learning. Many exciting things should happen during a Senior year, proms, yearbooks, skip days, but for these Seniors many school memories were created virtually. I commend our students for meeting their expectations to finalize their high school careers, I know it hasn't been easy. From the world of Dr. Seuss, "You're off to great places, today is your day, your mountain is waiting so get on your day!!" Jagöh! For children 12 - 17 parent consent is needed to receive the Pfizer vaccination. Parents can call for appointment and complete the consent form at the appointment. Please contact your Allegany or Cattaraugus Health Center to schedule an appointment.

On a more solemn note, an important discovery was made earlier this month at the Kamploops Indian Residential

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

School in British Columbia which operated between 1890-1978. Two hundred fifteen children were found in a mass grave on the grounds of the school. Although this finding is very emotional for many, it is not new to Indigenous people. We had the Thomas Indian School and Red House Quaker school on our Territories where similar assimilation practices occurred. We honor those who experienced injustice by remembering our history. We heal by learning our language and by living in our culture. Our trauma will continue if we allow it to. Let us continue to heal.

Our libraries and museum are filled with information on our own historical path. Let's understand it and teach our children that we are not only resilient or survivors, but that we are diverse, creative and strong individuals who can create change.

Lastly, this month's council session is open to members, following Covid protocols as well as virtually. Please contact the Clerk's office to set up the Go To meeting process.

As always, stay safe, stay strong. Dah ne'hoh dih ae'. Matt

FROM THE DESK OF THE TREASURER

Greetings,

I hope everyone is taking in all this nice weather. The mosquitoes are sure out! They are a sure sign summer is setting in, in the northeast. Also, I heard some people have been dealing with fly infestations and hanging fly paper inside their vehicles to deal with them. I sure hope that's helping. If you have been fully vaccinated by now, you're probably enjoying not wearing a mask as often as you had been. It's good to see everyone's face again, but I still keep one with me, just in case. infrastructure is being updated at each site. Of course, due to the large amount of work that needs to be done, the project will happen in phases. Judy Farmer, Highbanks Campground Director, reports that sites 1-26 could be open by July 4th weekend, with the next phase of sites 27-64 projected to open this fall. The remainder of the sites will be discussed in the spring. If you are interested in more details, please reach out to: Ashley King at (716) 354-2177, or by email at: ashley.king@sni.org.

As I reported in my last message, the Buffalo Creek One Stop held their grand opening on May 21st. I'm glad to report they served over 24,000 gas and convenience store customers in their first two weeks of operating. With this being our fifth fuel station and convenience store, we look forward to the future economic impact it will provide. Not only will the Seneca Nation's economy benefit, but so will the economy of the City of Buffalo. As the city continues to lift all COVID restrictions and life returns to a new normal, it goes without saying that our sales will increase. Please remember that all enrolled Senecas in Buffalo and the surrounding areas, whom provide their Seneca Nation identification/enrollment card, are eligible for a 5% discount on fuel; and all purchases in the store

If you were around when our Highbanks Campground first opened, you may recall we had campsites 1-99, known as Old Town, which were opened and operating. Over time, and from wear and tear, all 99 sites had to be taken out of commission. Recently, Ron Kenjockety, Al E. George and others have been spear heading a renovation project to re-open those sites. All of the electric and plumbing are tax exempt. Thank you to our dedicated One Stop staff for all of your hard work and making the Buffalo Creek One Stop another thriving and successful Seneca Nation enterprise!

I understand we are doing a great job in our communities with this virus. President Pagels reported zero cases in Cattaraugus and only one in Allegany, in a recent update. Thank you to those whom have taken the initiative to get vaccinated, which helps to keep our communities as safe as possible!

Respectfully, Rickey L. Armstrong, Sr.

Seneca Nation Statement On Discovery Of Remains Of More Than 200 Indigenous Children At Kamloops Residential School Site

CATTARAUGUS TERRITORY, IRVING, N.Y. – Seneca Nation President Matthew Pagels issued the following statement regarding the discovery of the remains of 215 children buried on the site of the former Kamloops Indian Residential School in British Columbia, Canada. The school, which operated between 1890 and 1969, was once Canada's largest Indigenous residential school, which hundreds of thousands of Indigenous children were forced to attend. Thousands of children are known to have died at these schools in the United States and Canada, and it is believed that the deaths of hundreds – if not thousands – were never documented. Taking children away from their families and trying to wipe away our native language and our very identity, often by force and violence, is a hate crime. These hate crimes can never and should never be forgotten. There are many Native people around the world, including many Senecas, who still carry the scars and terror of those days. Discoveries like the one at the Kamloops site re-open those wounds.

The terror our people face hasn't ended. Today, countless Indigenous individuals are murdered or go missing across Indian Country. Our communities have long been the targets of violence, abuse and neglect. It must end.

"Senecas are grieving along with the Tk'emlups te Secwépemc First Nation in the wake of this recent discovery - another gruesome reminder of the treatment and terror that generations of Indigenous people suffered at the hands of foreign settlers on our own lands.

Residential schools were established in an attempt to erase Indigenous people, our culture and our very existence, from our own lands. We lived on these lands long before the arrival of European settlers and well before countries like Canada and the United States existed. Relocating Native nations to remote areas and taking our lands was and is a grave injustice in and of itself. We pray for the children whose bodies were discovered last week, for their families, and for all Indigenous people who have been the victims of violence and abuse, and for those who remain missing. They will never be forgotten and we will always fight in their memory."

Restoring the Seneca Nation's history

Reprinted from Indian Country Today. June 3rd, 2021.

We speak with the Seneca Nation about a peace medal given by President George Washington that is being returned.

Some quotes from today's show. Matthew B. Pagels:

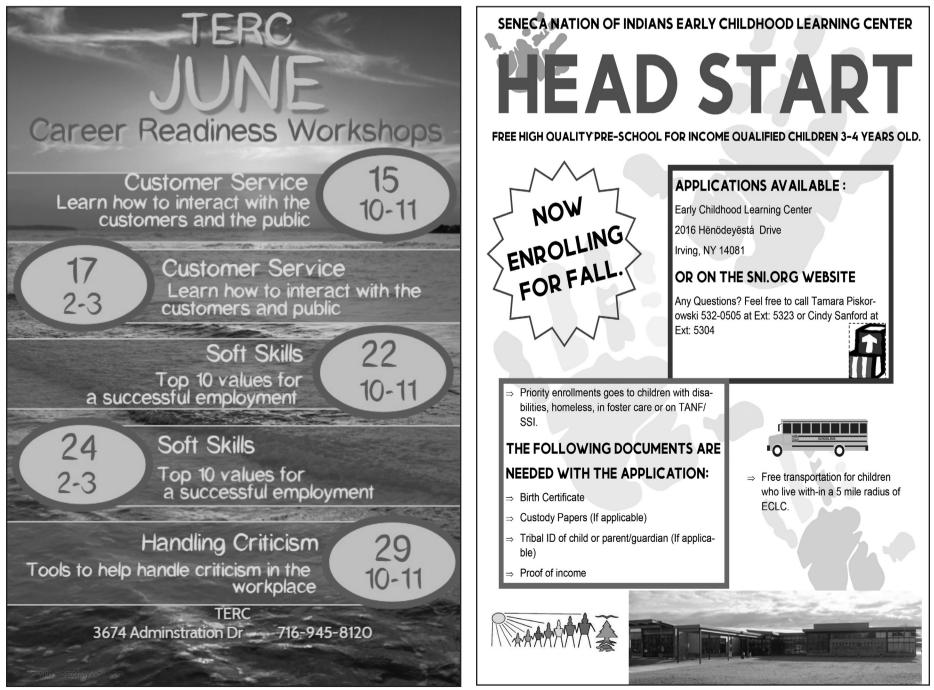

"Well, more than a couple of centuries ago Red Jacket negotiated and signed the 1794 treaty of Canandaigua. During that time he was gifted a Peace Medal by George Washington, and that was 1792. Through that treaty the U.S. pledged to respect honor and defend the rights of the Haudenosaunee people, recognizing them as a sovereign and that sovereign nation to nation relationship endures to this day."

"So the Buffalo History Museum actually had a replica onsite in the history museum. The actual was stored away. So I guess a yes and a no to that question. But they did house it and we were able to, with the hard work of the Buffalo museum and our new museum, the Seneca Allegheny Museum, we were able to get it back to where it rightfully belongs."

"And we made some drastic changes. The council here of the Seneca Nation did amazing things to make sure that all of these services and benefits in which we deploy to our community were unaffected. But we had to tighten the belt and we had to slow down jobs and hires and still find a way to make do with what was the coronavirus. Cause we had no clue. We went into it thinking it was going- to be a month long, a two-week long flu season or something. But we quickly learned that this was a life changing event."

It's been a rocky year for tribes. And then, for the Seneca Nation of Indians, came a victory. The tribal constitution was established in 1848. And more than 50 years before that. President George Washington gifted the Seneca Chief Red Jacket a peace medal. It's been gone from the Seneca people for more than 100 years. but now, it's home. Joining us today to talk about the return of the peace medal is the Seneca President Matthew Pagels.

Seneca Gaming Corporation Observes Orange Shirt Day At All Properties In Remembrance Of 215 Victims Discovered At Former Indigenous Residential School In Canada

FEMA RiskMap Survey of Cattaraugus Creek ATTENTION: SENECA NATION MEMBERS-

The Seneca Nation Emergency Management Department during the summer/fall of 2021, will be assisting in the coordination of an engineering analysis and flood plain mapping of the Cattaraugus Creek within the Seneca Nation, Cattaraugus Territory. This project is an ongoing effort to supplement the Seneca Nation, 1988 Flood Damage Ordinance. This project is funded by the United States- Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), Risk Analysis Branch-Region II to perform a RiskMAP Survey of the Cattaraugus Creek. The mapping survey is part of the Chautauqua County RiskMAP/STARR survey of land that sits adjacent to the Seneca Nation Territory. This portion of the actual survey will be conducted on the approximate three-mile stretch of Cattaraugus Creek stretching from the mouth of Creek on Lake Erie back inland.

The professional civilian land surveyors, Gayron de Bruin Land Surveying and Engineering PC based from Honeoye Falls, N.Y. will be the primary working survey crew, contracted by FEMA. The work conducted by the team will provide Seneca Nation with updated Base Flood Elevation information, a revised floodplain mapping profile, updated Flood Insurance Risk Maps (FIRM's) and current engineering tools for multiple uses.

The survey crew will make every effort to restrict their movements from local points of access and general confines of the creek and the surrounding floodplains and banks. On occasion, surveyors may need permission to encroach on surrounding properties for brief periods of time in order to obtain accurate measurements. It should be noted that at certain points, these individuals may well have to enter the creek itself in order to conduct the depth profile surveys.

Further, a professor and student from the Rochester Institute of Technology and possibly two student interns from the University of Buffalo may also be present on Territory during these mapping surveys, assisting the survey crew and Seneca Nation Emergency Management in this work.

Every person involved in the project shall be able to identify themselves with a driver's license or ID as well as produce a letter of agreement from Seneca Nation Presidents Office to be engaged in this project. Survey teams and college personnel alike will be using various equipment in the field; handheld tripods/cameras, survey theodolite, pole-mounted target reflectors, drone and personal computers.

Protecting Our Elders

June is Elder Abuse Awareness Month

Wear Purple - June 15th For Elder Abuse Awareness Day

Stand Up Against Elder Abuse Elders are an important part of our community. They are our wisdom keepers and first teachers. They deserve our respect and protection. Sadly, elder abuse most often occurs at home and by family members or caregivers. Most cases of elder abuse are undetected, under-reported, and unresolved.

On June 15th show that you care by wearing purple. Help raise awareness of this important and often overlooked issue.

Reach out to elders in your life. Show that you care and appreciate them.

Broadband Project NGRID and VZ "Make-Ready" Construction and Tree Clearing

The Seneca Nation's Council has authorized National Grid (NGRID), Verizon (VZ) and Asplundh to complete "makeready" construction and tree clearing throughout the Cattaraugus Territory in order to prepare the lines for the Seneca Nation's fiber internet project.

This construction is required to initiate the broadband, highspeed Internet project. Construction will take place throughout the summer.

Broadband will bring high-speed Internet and digital voice access to all Cattaraugus residents!! In order to accomplish this goal, we must contract with NGRID, VZ and Asplundh to complete the required construction and tree clearing. Seneca Nation's construction will begin once the "make-ready" construction has been completed.

You will see NGRID, Asplundh and Verizon trucks on the Cattaraugus Territory. We ask the community to be patient with the construction taking place on Territory as this is necessary to provide high-speed internet access to the entire Cattaraugus Territory.

Cyrus Williams is a student in the Seneca Nation of Indians Head Start 1 virtual class. He is 5 years old and the son of Jayde Stevens and Curtis Williams Sr. Cyrus has done an outstanding job participating in our virtual program this year. He has attended almost all of our weekly Zoom meetings, has completed his learning packet activities and has done a great job on the Hatch Ignite online games. Cyrus can name all of his letters and letter sounds, can count to 100 and above and recognizes all of the numbers. He can write both his first & last names and is starting to add & subtract. Cyrus loves to show me how much he knows and loves to surprise me when he has learned something new. He is definitely ready for Kindergarten, where I know he will shine bright!!

Briley Thompson is a student in the Seneca Nation of Indians Head Start 1 virtual class. She is 5 years old and the daughter of Joleen Lone. Briley has done a great job participating in our virtual program for the second half of the year. She has attended many of our weekly Zoom meetings and continues to complete her learning packet activities. Briley knows all of her shapes & colors and is working on writing her first name and naming the letters in her name. She is almost able to count to 20 without missing numbers and loves to show me all of her favorite toys!! She also enjoys playing outside and drawing! Briley is excited to go to Kindergarten, where I believe she will continue to blossom!!

-Mrs Lori, Head Start 1

Sylvie Williams has worked really hard attending any and all zoom meeting I have provided. I'm very proud of the progress she has made academically. Her outgoing personality has made the Zoom meetings fun show off his magic bean growing. Vincent created a bird feeder from recycled items and was beyond excited to have a bird visit the feeder.

Layriya Beaver worked hard as one of my younger students attending Zoom. Layriya would love to get on Zoom and tell me what's going on in her life. She was always very talkative sharing her experiences with me. Layriya would try her hardest when working on zoom from letter making to forming shapes. I'm happy to see her progress. Laryriya enjoys doing crafts and Zoom dance parties with her favorite stuffed animal.

This year in Head Start we faced many different obstacles with introducing our students to a virtual learning world. I'm proud of all my students and families for their hard work and dedication. I have a few families that I would like to recognize that went above and beyond. Mrs. Heather, Head Start 2

Montana Jimerson is a hard worker. She loves finding colors and knowing what letter we are doing for the week. She gets so excited. She has come a long way academically from being in a virtual classroom this year. She is a very friendly little girl, she attends Zoom every day. Montana notices when her friends are missing from Zoom.

Heaven Harper has been a joy to get to know, she is a hard worker. She loves interacting with her peers on Zoom. She enjoys going over her colors, shapes, and the letter of the week. She is very observant and notices when her friends are not on Zoom. She attends zoom every day.

Alora White has improved in her academics daily. She attends Zoom every day and has participated 100%. She loves singing and finding colors. She enjoys talking about how much she loves her Mom and Dad. She often talks about what her parents have done the day before.

Royalty DeJesus has attended Zoom 100% she is a hard worker and when she is on Zoom by herself she will ask where her friend is. She has made a bond with the girl that she Zooms with. Royalty is a very friendly little girl and loves to learn. She is improving on recognizing letters.

and interactive for all of us. Sylvie has shown great achievements with writing her first and last name along with many letters of the alphabet. Sylvie is also very artistic. I also love her dance moves when we have Zoom dance parties.

Vincent Rivera has shown boundless dedication in all the work he completes with great determination to complete new tasks. Vincent has become our scientist and loves to watch the outcome of our science activities. Vincent enjoys nature he was very excited to Harper Abrams is a hard worker, she participates Zoom 100% . She enjoys going over the colors, shapes, and letter of the week. She will take turns with the peer that she zooms with. Harper will wait to see if the peer knows the answer before she answers.

Annual Memorial Day Commemoration

On Monday, May 31, 2021, the Iroquois Post 1587 & Auxiliary, along with the Seneca Nation, co-hosted a Memorial Day commemoration at the Seneca Allegany Administration Building.

Post Director, Ron Cook Jr welcomed everyone and words were offered by Seneca Nation President, Matthew Pagels. The customary Tolling of the bell & Taps were conducted by Sally Snow (Auxiliary President) and Al George (US Army). Swearing in of post officers was conducted by Dorothy Button, USCG.

Special honorees this year included Kenneth Parker, USMC WWII and Arnold White, USN WWII. Families of the fallen warriors were presented with eagle feathers, in honor of their ultimate sacrifice. A delicious lunch was provided by Chiavettas and closing remarks were given by SNI Treasurer, Rickey L. Armstrong.

The event concluded with a showing of the PBS documentary, Warrior Tradition. We honor all who those made the ultimate sacrifice.

World War II Warrior Veteran Private First-Class Kenneth Parker

Private First-Class Kenneth Parker enlisted in the Marine Corps 24 February 1941 from Versailles, New York. Qualified as a Rifle Sharpshooter and completed recruit training with the 2nd Recruit Training Battalion, Marine Corps Base, Parris Island, SC. On 25 April 1941, PFC Parker was assigned to the Guard Company, Marine Barracks in Washington D.C. with duties of ensuring the security, force protection, screening, training, and evaluating personnel for presidential support operations in and around the Capital White House. (Class A photo enhancement courtesy of Evenhouse Printing).

PFC Parker wanted to expand his service capabilities and volunteered to attend Airborne School on 30 January 1942 and became a Paramarine as part of a special troops' unit. After graduation Airborne Training, PFC Parker received orders to C Company, 1st Marine Parachute Battalion, 1st Marine Division, Marine Corps Base at Hadnot Point on the New River in North Carolina in June 1942. On the 7th of August 1942, PFC Parker moved with his battalion to a place called Guadalcanal fighting alongside the 1st Marine Raiders during the Tasimboko raid with follow-on combat operations at the battle of Edson's (Bloody) Ridge where he was wounded in action on the 13th of September 1943. Suffering from high causalities during this time frame, the Marine paratroopers were transported to Camp Kiser in Tontouta, New Calendonia by the end of September 1943 to recover and refit.

After returning state-side and furlough, PFC Parker was reassigned to A Company, 1st Battalion, 27th Marines and made his way back to the Pacific Theater and participated in beach assault rehearsals in January 1945 in Maui, Hawaii. PFC Parker's unit deployed with the 27th and 28th Marines on 16 February 1945 on LST (Landing Ship, Tanks) from the island of Saipan. On February 19th, 1945, PFC Parker and fellow Marines landed on Red Beach Two, Iwo where intense fighting took place during D-Day. This beach assault was the bloodiest battle in the Pacific theater where PFC Parker along with many of his fellow Marines were fatally injured or killed-in-action. The 28th Marines quickly realized that the Japanese forces were utilizing the summit of Mount Suribachi as a vantage point to direct artillery fire onto the American forces below and the Marines would continue to fight and eventually capture the summit and raise the U.S. Flag on the summit.

PFC Parker's awards include: two Purple Hearts, Combact Action Ribbon, Navy Presidential Unit Medal, Good Conduct Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal, American Campaign Medals, and the WWII Victory Medal. Honoring our fallen Warrior Private First-Class Kenneth Parker killed in action February 19, 1945. May our Warrior Rest-in-Peace.

Kenneth Parker's sister Maxine Smith was in attendance to receive this highest honor of the Eagle Feather heirloom. Maxine Smith in turn heirloomed the Eagle Feather to family member Joseph Skutt to ensure the family legacy would not be forgotten. Biography was read by Iroquois Post 1587 Officer Josette "Nini" Wheeler.

Seaman Arnold White enlisted in the U.S. Navy in 1940 as a Radio Operator and would participate in six sea battles, including combat operations aboard the U.S.S. O'Brien during World War II. combat vessel U.S.S. O'Brien destroyer would join Task Force 54 in support of the invasion of Kerama Retto, which became the "Key to Victory at Okinawa."

On March 27, 1945, a little after 6am, four kamikaze airplanes were spotted skimming the low cloud cover, heading directly for the U.S. destroyer ship O'Brien. The ship's anti-aircraft guns immediately opened fire peppering the air with explosives and shrapnel, sending two of the Japanese planes crashing into the sea in flames. A third plane was taken down by an American combat air patrol aircraft. Tragically, the U.S.S. O'Brien sustained a critical blow just behind the bridge of the ship from the fourth kamikaze airplane. The plane collided with the ship with a terrible ear-splitting roar Evenhouse Printing).

Radiomen 2nd Class Arnold White along with 52 other Sailors who were killed-in-action that day and posthumously received the Purple Heart from the President of the United States. Arnold's other awards and decorations include the Combat Action Ribbon, World War II Victory Medal, American Campaign Medal, Navy Presidential Unit Citation, Navy Good Conduct Medal, Asiatic-Pacific Campaign Medal, and the Navy Expeditionary Medal. Haudenosaunee Promise Scholar flourishes on campus while staying committed to her cultural teachings

Reprinted from syracuse.edu | June 1, 2021

On any given day this summer, Logan Booth '21 might be found unpacking a case of portable studio equipment and carefully editing the recording inside. She's producing audio interviews with Indigenous students as part of an internship with Sound Beat, a National Public Radio show featuring archived recordings from Syracuse University's Belfer Audio Laboratory and Archive.

The post-graduation internship calls upon the expertise Booth has gained as an English and textual studies major in the College of Arts and Sciences and public relations major in the S.I. Newhouse School of Public Communications. It also draws on her passions-she has been fascinated with photography, videos and storytelling since she was a child. The project is one of many ways she promotes her heritage as a member of the Seneca Nation residing on the Onondaga Nation near Syracuse. For Booth, documenting current students' experiences to provide knowledge for the future reflects the value of the Good Mind, a traditional teaching of the Haudenosaunee Confederacy. According to the Haudenosaunee, being aware of our thoughts and intentions causes our spirit to grow and helps us fulfill our purpose on Earth. "Practicing the Good Mind, we can help others in future generations of our community," Booth says.

A first-generation college student and a Haudenosaunee Promise Scholarship recipient, Booth takes great pride in representing the young Native women of her community at Syracuse University. She acknowledges there were challenges at first. On campus her first year, she struggled with homesickness and adjustment to college life. But before too long, she says, she found her communities among some 350 Native American students at the University.

During a three-day focused orientation program for new Indigenous students, Booth was introduced to specialized resources that helped her navigate what she says can feel like "two worlds" to a modern Haudenosaunee college student. She recalls occasions when she attended a ceremony at the Onondaga Nation and had a class on campus soon after on the same day. She needed to build effective time management skills to maintain her involvement with her traditional culture and community, while also being fully present as a University student. "My professors seemed to understand that the

A Mentor and a Mentee

In addition to her involvement with Onondaga Nation culture and traditions, Booth has been an academic tutor for young people in her home community, responding to a need that developed as a result of remote schooling during the pandemic. Every week during her senior year, she has helped students in grade school through high school-including her brother Arrow—with their homework assignments. The tutoring takes place online and onsite at the Onondaga Nation School, where Booth was once a student herself. She says it's rewarding to pass along the value of critical thinking she's learning at Syracuse, and all the possibilities she's exploring. "I know I'm having an impact

At Syracuse, I've been able to stay close to my culture and my identity and still offer it to younger generations.

Booth has been on the receiving end of such uplifting mentorship from other Native American members of the University community. She says Scott Manning Stevens, citizen of the Akwesasne Mohawk Nation and director of the Native American and Indigenous Studies Program, has taught some favorite courses in her minor and has been a valuable resource and colleague. "He has a helpful perspective on the experience of a Native student, a Native studies expert and a Native professor," she says.

Throughout her time as a student at Syracuse, Booth says she has also cherished her involvement with the Native Student Program through the Office of Multicultural Affairs and its director, Regina Jones. A member of the Oneida Nation and a resident of the Onondaga Nation, Jones works with Syracuse University students, faculty, staff and families on initiatives that help Indigenous students transition to college and remain connected with their heritage, which is recognized as key to the success of their college experience. "Regina Jones has the ability to make anyone feel at home," says Booth. "Having her here really helped me, in my best moments and my worst."

Connected Communities

Booth also feels bonded with her peers in Indigenous Students at Syracuse (ISAS), a community that celebrates traditions through projects and activities on campus. During her sophomore year, the student organization put on a major runway fashion show for Native American Heritage Month featuring members from many nations and areas of study. helped plan for the event. "The show represented our people through three themes: traditional regalia, a mix of contemporary with reflections of longhouse and smokehouse styles, and contemporary interpretations of traditional dress," she says. Participants were from the Onondaga, Seneca, Mohawk and Tuscarora nations, among others. Booth went on to serve as secretary for the group, and in her senior year she has helped launch a pilot program for Indigenous students in which upperclass students are paired with first-year students to serve as mentors.

Booth's college experience has also led her to adventures far beyond the communities she has known. Thanks to the Haudenosaunee Promise Scholarship, she studied abroad last year, taking courses on Shakespeare and fashion media in London and traveling to Madrid before the pandemic ended the program early. "Being so passionate about and involved in my home community, it was amazing to be in a land outside my own," she says. "I recommend that all students-maybe especially Native students—go abroad if they can. It's an incredible experience." And, after participating in competitive volleyball throughout high school and playing on the practice team at Syracuse for two years, Booth has enjoyed her community of club volleyball. "We have fun, and we're all connected just by the love of volleyball," she says.

While she is producing those audio interviews for future generations this summer, Booth will also pursue a job as a media practitioner and participate in her hobby of traditional smoke dance competition. "It's important for me to keep broadening my perspective," she says. "It inspires me, because I want to represent my culture and communities the best way I can."

June is here which is the end of the school year for some students and for some others it's time for graduation from high school. Our prayers are with all students for a safe and happy summer and for the graduates our prayers are for a successful future. Congratulations go out to all students and parents for completing the school year.

June is also a time to celebrate fathers. Our community needs strong male role models to build strong loving families. We all have one father – the Creator – who shows us his love every day of our lives.

"Jesus said to Him, 'I am the way, the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father (Creator in Heaven) except through Me'." John 14:6.

Come and celebrate with us on Sunday mornings at 10:30am as we praise, pray to, and preach concerning our Creator, Sustainer, and Savior Jesus Christ, the Lord of Glory. Come and hear his word, it is living and powerful, it can and will bring new, everlasting life if you will believe and follow Him. Titus 2: 11-14.

We can be thankful for our earthly and heavenly Father.

Please continue to pray for those in our communities who are affected by drug or alcohol abuse, those who are struggling with illness and those who are mourning the loss of a loved one. Pray for their families. We all need healing.

Everyone is invited to join us at Four Corners on Sunday morning 8:30 a.m. to meet with Pastor Holly or just to visit. Worship service begins at 9 a.m. We look forward to seeing you!

Day One: It's Time To Heal

By Lehman 'Dar' Dowdy | Provided by Steve Gordon

Below is a letter written by "Dar" Dowdy in 2009 that still resonates today.

Over the past three years, I have spent a great deal of time trying to find a solution to help my people deal with the various social and health problems that attack them emotionally, mentally, physically and spiritually. I learned, through different discussions with other educators and healers that the majority of our physical ailments begin as emotional problems. I further came to understand that these emotional triggers begin at childbirth and can even be transferred to us through our mothers and fathers. As I dug even deeper into the extent of our emotional attachments I found that collectively, as a distinct race of Native people, we have all been exposed to the same type of emotional garbage: forced assimilation, education process, cultural persecution and genocide, prejudice, boarding schools, relocation, substance abuse, diabetes and other health disorders. We are walking around with five hundred years of emotional and spiritual trauma strapped to our backs. Throughout our lifetime, we grow accustomed to bearing this heavy load and we learn to live our lives without any outward signs of discomfort or disease. But the deep, ugly signs of this bodily stress are there:

domestic violence, low self esteem, drug and alcohol abuse, child abuse, greed, sickness, indifference and a general lack of caring. Our ancestors were wise when they advised us to "Let it go"; let go of the negativity; don't own the pain. They understood the connection between the mind, spirit and physical body. Throughout our history, we learned to consistently adapt and change; this is how we arrived into this new period of time; we are survivors. But we are not free of the emotional burdens that we carry. Many of us walk around with our heads down; behaving as helpless victims. Once, we had an entire community, extended families, clans, who would help us to bear these loads. Today, too often, we find ourselves alone. So we self-medicate and bandage up the pain; hoping that it will just go away. Before long, it appears as a disease, an illness that robs us of our vitality and the will to be happy and healthy. That unhappiness spreads to anger and affects our families and communities.

Finally, the spirit begins to falter and all hope is lost. That hopelessness spreads to the borders of our communities and affects everyone (Continued on page 20)

DAY ONE: IT'S TIME TO HEAL

and everything. Because we have abandoned our traditional ways of caring for one another we've lost our sense of community. Our society is becoming one of; every man for himself. Deep in our hearts, we know that this type of thought is wrong but we don't know how to correct it. It is too simple to realize that the change has to begin with one's self. We need to come together again as a community, as an extended family of caregivers. We need to stand one another back up; to lend that helping hand or to express our caring. These are easy things that we can remind ourselves to do; to start making that difference. When we see our children adopting another culture as a way to behave, dress and belief; we have taken a giant step toward terminating our Native culture and defining who we are as a distinct Native people. There is a feeling of indifference to preserving our language and culture, not realizing that these are the foundations to our sovereign survival. We are who we are because our grandparents chose to speak their Native language and to retain the customs and traditions of our ancestors; they knew that this would someday matter. They knew that the day would come when we would need our traditional thoughts and ways to carry us through these difficult times. I do not recommend a return to the 'old ways'; history will not allow us to go backwards; I'm recommending a going forward with our language, culture and traditions firmly preserved and rooted in our communities.

I'm advocating that we again think like our ancestors; to understand that it is our responsibility to make a better world for our children. Our life roads can all be different but they should all lead to creating the best possible results for those yet unborn; that thought will insure our survival as Native people. With the help of all the Native educators and healers we can raise an awareness of the true strength and power of our Native spirituality. No one has to have a title or position of power to raise this issue; all it takes is caring, love and compassion for our Native people. It is my greatest desire to find a way to help our people, to give them the spiritual strength to better themselves, their families and their communities. That is my intent and I look forward to all your positive suggestions, solutions and feedback.

A Message from Burchfield Nature and Art Center Burchfield Nature and Art Center continues the tradition

The volunteers at the Burchfield Nature and Art Center have missed having the annual Treaty Commemoration Ceremony for the last 2 years. It was always such a wonderful day.

We wanted you to know that we have continued to make the public aware of the Seneca Nation history in this area. The weekend of May 15th, a group of Boy Scouts completed a project in the park to improve the area around the Commemoration area. The area has been cleaned up and planted (including a Three Sisters Garden). The white pine tree the Nation presented us with 2014 is now over 8 feet tall. A seating area has been added near the tree. A post was put in to hold a QR code that leads people to an SNI history page. Penny Minner provided us with a design that was printed onto a sign that highlights the clans.

The area is now an informative and beautiful section of the park.

We look forward to seeing you next year.

Connections: Understanding the truth about American and Native American history - Listen to the TALK program at wxxinews.org that featured guest speakers, Peter Jemison & Gabriele Papa!

Topics addressed during the May 17th program:

- We talk about this history, what is misunderstood or whitewashed, and how to better teach these lessons.
- We talk with the artists about their craft and about a renaissance of Indigenous art. We also address recent anti-racism movements and if Indigenous communities feel included.

• The City of Rochester is getting ready to celebrate its inaugural Indigenous Peoples' Day on October 8. The holiday will coincide with Columbus Day, which has long been controversial. To name a few. Connections w/Evan Dawson talks about what matters to you on Connections, Every weekday from noon-2 p.m. Participate in future programs with questions or comments by phone - 1-844-295-TALK (8255), email, Facebook or Twitter.

Nya:wëh! (Submitted by Taryn White)

Bryant Sanchez, 6yo, underwent open heart surgery March 4th, 2021 and following post op complications was able to come home April 1st. Bryant is still recovering post op and is currently thriving with his new heart anatomy. Bryant and family would love to send out many nya:wëh's to our community, and family members for the good vibes, prayers and monetary donations sent our way while Bryant was in the hospital recovering from his third open heart surgery. We cannot put into words how we all felt receiving such an abundance of love from everyone.

Happy 10th Anniversary, Maryann! (June 18th, 2011)

I LOVE YOU MORE THAN YOU KNOW!
